

Freight does not stop at 5 pm. Neither should your desk.

Dispatch, tracking and back office are the seats that burn out first and turn over fastest. They are also the easiest to staff offshore well.

Why the Philippines fits logistics

- Deep experience supporting US brokers and 3PLs: the country's IT-BPM sector employs 1.9 million people and has built a bench of track-and-trace, dispatch and carrier-sales talent.
- High English proficiency (28th of 123 countries, second in Asia on the 2025 EF EPI) and strong cultural alignment with US business.
- Time-zone flexibility: a Manila day shift is a US night shift, so after-hours coverage is a normal schedule, not a hardship post.

Three team builds that pay for themselves

Team	Seats	What changes	US loaded / yr	Philippines / yr (market)
After-hours pod	2 track & trace + 1 dispatcher	Every load has a human on it overnight and on weekends; the day team stops fielding 6 am fires	$215,700	$54,000 - $75,600
Back-office pod	1 POD/billing + 1 AR/AP + 1 CSR	Invoices go out on time, carriers get paid on time, customers get answered	$202,600	$52,800 - $73,200
Growth pod	2 carrier sales + 1 quoting	More loads covered per rep, faster quotes, US reps freed for customer-facing selling	$270,000	$60,000 - $85,200

US loaded cost = BLS May 2025 median salary / 0.70 (benefits are 30% of compensation per BLS, June 2026). Carrier sales uses the BLS non-technical wholesale sales rep median as a proxy; quoting uses the CSR median. Philippines figures are 2026 managed-provider market ranges; we quote one all-inclusive rate per role.

"The team Thrivemodal placed with us has been a strong fit. We've seen good attendance, strong performance, and people who take ownership of their work. That consistency allows our leadership team to focus on strategy, customers, and relationships instead of constantly having to fill staffing gaps."
